

The Chile Chico

August, 2015 Vol. 47

Acadia National Park, Bar Harbor, Maine

Sometimes, it pays to be flexible. Our recent venture to Labrador just didn't work out! The original plan was to drive to Natashquan, a small village on the north side of the St. Lawrence Seaway where the road ends. We would board a ferry with our bikes and gear, travel the two days on the ferry to Blanc-Sablon, Quebec. The roads begin again and we were planning to bicycle to St. Mary's Harbour in Labrador. No small feat. This route stretches through miles of wilderness taiga. We received a phone call in-route to Natashquan from the ferry office informing us the ferry was delayed due to mechanical problems. It would be delayed for a week or more. Fortunately, the guys took the news well. We modified the original trip and took a different ferry to the south side of the St. Lawrence Seaway, biking along the beautiful Gaspè Peninsula, then to Prince Edward Island ending up in Acadia National Park, pictured above. The scenery was breathtaking! Not a bad recovery!!!

I've said this before....there's something about exploring God's creation, taking in His wonderful design, sitting around a campfire underneath a canopy of a gazillion stars, and talking about the rich life in Christ. It just seems appropriate. This time we explored Galatians!! Join us, you won't be disappointed.
